President’s letter

When 2021 was expected to be the year of recovery, new coronavirus variants further complicated an already extremely complex scenario, with one part of the world beginning to see the exit of the tunnel while another did not even have vaccines to treat its population.

Logically, the work of Alianza por la Solidaridad was also conditioned by the social and economic impact of the pandemic, in all the contexts in which the organization is present. The increase in inequalities, prices, insecurity, and the maintenance of mobility restrictions imposed by the health authorities have increased operational and logistical difficulties.

It is often said that, in these types of circumstances, the work of an organization like Alianza is more relevant than ever. And so it has been. The new management team, headed by Cristina Muñoz, has increased its activity to cover the needs arising from the crisis caused by Covid-19, while continuing to comply with the committed programs, always with professionalism, dedication and the ability to adapt to circumstances. Always with the focus on people in situations of vulnerability and at the same time with transformative potential, especially women, youth and migrants. Always with a feminist, anti-racist and environmentalist look.

To mention just a few examples, among the achievements in 2021, there is the fact that 7,007 people from 47 countries traveled 47,561 kilometers to demand climate justice and commitments to the world leaders who met in Glasgow for COP26; or having protected more than 5,000 women against gender-based violence; or having provided humanitarian aid to 34,000 families in Haiti, after a new earthquake devastated the island; or having offered protection to more than 800 threatened community leaders in Colombia.

2021 has also seen the renewal of part of Alianza’s board of trustees, which, together with Érika Rodríguez Pinzón in the vice presidency, I have the honor of heading since December. We want to promote changes that allow us to continue modernizing the organization, advancing in our integration into the Action Aid federation and improving the efficiency of our work.

All of us who are part of Alianza - board of trustees, team, partners, and volunteers - are committed to achieving a greater impact every day, with the firm will to continue contributing our experience and knowledge, but also with the humility to continue learning to face the challenges and changes of an increasingly uncertain world.
Appointment of new director in 2021

For more than 15 years I have been dedicated to international humanitarian and development cooperation work in several countries: East Timor, Tibet, Lebanon, Jordan, and Palestine. I studied Environmental Sciences and have always been interested in the intersection between the environment and inequalities, as well as the international perspective of the most pressing problems humanity faces to survive. In these years of professional experience, I have been training in international relations, development cooperation, human rights, gender, leadership, and social innovation, among others. In 2008 I joined Alianza por la Solidaridad where I have held various positions in different countries: regional coordination in the Middle East, coordination of humanitarian action and emergencies, and lastly, the direction of programs for the entire organization in recent years.

In 2021, I was appointed CEO and I took on this challenge with great enthusiasm and a great sense of responsibility that this position entails. I have always said that I have the best job in the world: being able to change people’s lives for the better. This organization has allowed me, in addition to a lot of learning, to be more critical, more humble, and to continue fighting with more enthusiasm for what I believe. Alianza/ActionAid has made me understand that change is possible and that it comes from the transformative power of people.

We begin a new stage with a new management team and board of trustees convinced that it is our duty to future generations to build a new model of life based on the guarantee of the human rights of all people, justice, and equality. From our feminist and anti-racist conviction, this implies promoting a change of model that is respectful of the planet, with its diversity and natural and cultural wealth. My ambition is to help this organization continue to grow and to do so by being more diverse, more open, and relevant to society. We will continue to strive to make our organization more effective and our impacts more lasting. We will continue to explore new ways for citizens to have their own voice and the necessary role in social, economic, political, and legal change. Despite the unstable international scenario we are facing, we will continue to fight for a better future.

Cristina Muñoz
DIRECTOR OF ALIANZA/ACTIONAID SPAIN
Who we are

We are an organization of passionate and committed people, convinced that a more just and equal world is possible. We firmly believe that change is only possible if people themselves have that capacity for transformation.

We work together with more than 50,000 members, volunteers, sympathizers, collaborators, and workers.

With the support of the feminist, anti-racist and environmental defense movements, we are building viable alternatives. That is why our work focuses on women, youth, and migrants who are the most active groups to generate social change and challenge the current political, economic, and social structures.

Being part of the ActionAid International Federation has allowed us not only, to expand the network of countries in which we work to more than 50 on five continents, and reach more people; but to be able to get involved in more global struggles and exert political pressure at the international level.
Our Values

We believe in the power of people and their groups to change the world. When people organize themselves, pool their skills and direct their efforts to transform their societies, correcting inequalities at the root and in a sustainable manner, they become empowered and produce change.

We believe that all people on the planet must be citizens. We defend with ambition that all human beings have equal value and deserve to enjoy all the universal rights that go beyond geographical limits and that, therefore, they must have the legal and social capacity to demand them from the States and the international community.

We believe that it is our duty to future generations to create opportunities to build a new model of life based on justice and equality and respectful of the Planet and its diversity and natural and cultural wealth.

We believe that Solidarity is the main moral and political bond on which it is possible to create a global society of citizens that respects their diversity within a common framework of Human Rights.

We believe that the best role that social organizations can play is to be catalysts and mediators of alliances between actors that mobilize resources, knowledge and capacities, in order to facilitate the empowerment of citizens and their organizations.

We believe that Learning and Knowledge are an essential part of social organizations and that putting them at the service of social change and the empowerment of people is one of our main functions.

We believe that Transparency and accountability should be the backbone of our organization, regarding the resources and funds we manage and the impact and changes we generate with our work.

Mission

the purpose of Alianza/ActionAid is to achieve an active and global citizenship that fights against the great inequalities of the world and in favor of the recognition of Human Rights for all people.

Eradication of gender violence

What we do?

We fight to eradicate gender-based violence suffered by women in those places where we work, especially young women, migrant women and women in conflict zones or disaster situations.

We address the cycle of violence from the most personal and human dimension, passing through the family and socioeconomic sphere and influencing the public sphere at the level of policies and legislation that protect women and eliminate impunity.

We defend the exercise of sexual and reproductive rights. Experience has shown us that they are closely linked to gender violence.

Our achievements

Sexual and reproductive rights

• In Bolivia, with the #JóvenesEnAcción campaign, we used music as a common thread for activists to promote sexual and reproductive rights, reaching more than 20,000 young people and adolescents.

• In Palestine, 3,711 women attended sexual and reproductive health consultations. In Gaza, we have continued to support a mobile clinic, thanks to which almost 2,000 people living in hard-to-reach areas have received services.

• In Jordan, 132 women have participated in group sessions where we talk about the importance of sexual and reproductive health, information that in many cases is taboo and whose lack of knowledge severely limits their access to treatment.

Community awareness and prevention

• In a context as complicated as Mali, we have managed to reach 3,701 people (1,795 women and 1,276 men), raising awareness about gender equality and violence, including sexual violence.

• In Jordan, 956 people (240 men and 716 women) and in Palestine almost 8,000 people (6,660 in the West Bank and 1,337 in Gaza) have participated in awareness sessions on women’s rights and gender-based violence. In addition, to promote a change in mentality, 10 workshops on new masculinities have been held, attended by 224 people.

• In Colombia, community prevention sessions have been held for 8,331 people.

• Generated evidence and proposals for action on Gender Violence against displaced women in the Andean Region and on the impact of Covid-19 on Gender Violence in Spain, generating proposals for improvement in public policies in four countries.

• In Mauritania, more than 100 women have taken part in training cycles about their rights, promoting collective empowerment and their capacity for agency and autonomy.

Eradication of gender violence
Comprehensive response to gender violence

- In Palestine, the safe virtual spaces that were opened due to COVID-19 have brought relief to 3,886 women and girls who regularly use this channel.
- In Colombia, eight safe and accessible spaces have been created for women and girls.
- During the pandemic, we managed to keep our services operational, adapting care to the remote modality and disseminating by digital media good safeguarding and protection practices for women.
- In Spain, 300 migrant women domestic workers have received psychosocial, legal and labor care, strengthening the CETHYC (Household and Care Workers Empowerment Center) in collaboration with SEDOAC.
- In Mali, two centers are operational in the Gao region, which have a comprehensive care service for survivors of violence that offers assistance in sexual and reproductive health and psychological, medical, social, legal and economic support to women who request it.

Political participation of women and youth

- In Palestine, a campaign was carried out in Gaza, “Her voice, your voice”, in order to promote the political participation of women and youth. In it we managed to involve political parties, feminist organizations, student councils, unions and activists.
- In Spain, more than 1,200 young people have been involved in actions to raise awareness and activism around the feminist and anti-racist agenda.
- In Jordan, 2,073 people participated in the 180 sessions organized by women on political participation and gender.

Economic rights and entrepreneurship

- In Palestine we have continued with the entrepreneurship and employability program providing technical advice to five start-ups and nine economic projects led by women. In addition, eight women have been selected to receive seed funds to promote their projects.
- In Colombia, two meetings have been held called “Mercados Campesinos”, in which women from different districts have found a space to interact with other women about their activities and exchange experiences.
- In Spain, 400 migrant women domestic workers have improved their technical skills through specialized training.
- In Bolivia, the campaign against violence in the world of work and for the ratification of ILO Convention 190, carried out jointly with the Platform against harassment and violence in the world of work, managed to mobilize more than 70,000 people.
Human rights of excluded groups

What we do?

Our work is aimed at strengthening civil society organizations in contexts of violence and political persecution in societies where freedoms and political rights are very limited.

Therefore, much of our effort is focused on supporting women human rights defenders around the world, who are systematically criminalized, through the creation of international and national legal mechanisms that guarantee their protection.

In addition, we promote political and citizen participation, focusing it on excluded and discriminated groups, especially young people and migrants, supporting movements in favor of diversity and anti-racism and the fight against the reduction of the political space of civil society.

Projects in Morocco, Spain, Guatemala and Colombia
Our achievements

- We have offered protection to more than 800 threatened community leaders in Colombia.
- Between March and April, the public campaign “Guardianas del agua y la tierra”, was carried out, through which the situation and the work of defenders of human and environmental rights in Guatemala were reported, where in recent years their persecution and criminalization has increased. We have informed more than 900,000 people.
- Several meetings have been held to publicize the importance of the role of women human rights defenders, as well as the risks and violence they face. Dissemination has been supported by more than 100,000 people on social networks.
- We have played an active role in raising awareness in Spanish society about issues as important as global inequalities, feminism, migration and climate justice, having reached 6,150 people with our activities, workshops, meetings, training with groups of migrants, youth and the general population.
- We have expanded our work in Andalusia and Extremadura by approaching groups of women in rural areas, where we have witnessed the violations of their rights and the exploitative conditions that occur in jobs in the agricultural sector. We have accompanied the creation of support networks for more than 1,100 migrant women with legal advice and information on their social and economic rights.
Climate justice

What we do?

We promote Climate Justice, which implies recognizing that there are different responsibilities in the fight against climate change and that it affects differently according to socioeconomic level, gender, etc. We work to stop climate change, ensuring the resilience of the groups most affected by it, especially women, and their ability to adapt and lead the ecological transition.

We support communities with sustainable approaches to rural development based on agroecology, renewable energy, local production and consumption in local markets, and green employment.

We believe that it is key to open new spaces for participation in the current movement for climate justice, so that their demands have more visibility and are more effective. Our priority is to promote the role of young people.

Climate justice

Our achievements

- On the occasion of the United Nations Climate Summit, COP26 in Glasgow, the ‘EarthWalk’ campaign was launched in 47 countries. 7,007 participants covered 47,561 km! With this symbolic gesture, we made known the meaning of climate justice and demanded concrete commitments from the leaders who met at the summit.

- Hundreds of young people have participated in informative activities, workshops and debate competitions in Spain, becoming ambassadors for climate justice and sustainability thanks to projects such as Climate of Change and FoodWave. These projects have been developed in more than 13 European countries.

- In Colombia, we rehabilitated five water storage systems that have benefited and improved the living conditions of 4,776 people (2,432 women and 2,344 men) in the municipalities of Roberto Payán, Quibdó, Maguí Payán, Bajo Baudó and Nuquí.

- We have supported Indian women, many of them from particularly marginalized castes, to start their businesses. In 2021, together with ActionAid India, we have launched 1,036 business prototypes in livestock and poultry farming.

- In Mauritania, thanks to our support, 53 women’s cooperatives have started to produce agroecologically and are more resilient to climate change. More than 1,500 women benefited from training on horticultural technical itineraries and agroecology. In addition, ten women’s cooperatives have improved their marketing and sales strategies in local markets, thanks to the transformation of agricultural products and the construction of conservation spaces (collection centers) powered by solar energy.

- In Senegal, 661 women producers in the department of Medina Yoro Foulah have increased their income thanks to the diversification of production with agroecological techniques and its commercialization in local markets.
Humanitarian action

What we do?

Our work is aimed at protecting the most vulnerable people during humanitarian crises and strengthening their resilience capacities in the places where the organization has a presence. We focus on promoting leadership and emergency response capacity by affected groups, especially women and young people, from prevention and early warning to intervention in development and peacebuilding processes. We place special emphasis on guaranteeing protection against violence against women and young people, especially sexual violence.

Projects in Haiti, Mali, Palestine, Jordan and Colombia.
We responded to various emergencies that occurred in 2021: the earthquake in Haiti in August, the Israeli military offensive on the Gaza Strip, and the delta variant of COVID-19 in India. In addition, we work in other humanitarian contexts of chronic crisis such as the Syrian crisis in Jordan, the conflict in Mali, the economic, political, and social crisis in Haiti, the triple affliction by COVID, the Venezuelan crisis, and the armed conflict in Colombia, or the effects of the prolonged Israeli Occupation in Palestine.

• In Haiti, we have provided humanitarian aid to 34,000 families, both in the earthquake zone, in the department of the South, and in the department of the Southeast. In 2021 alone we have delivered 4.5 million euros from the World Food Program in direct monetary aid. All this while continuing our regular aid programs for the most vulnerable people in the southeast of the country.

• The emergency humanitarian response in Gaza focused on supporting 2,000 families in urgent need of assistance after partially or completely losing their homes as a result of the Israeli attack in May. The aid went towards food and essential items such as hygiene kits, clothing, blankets, mattresses, and diapers. In addition, psychosocial care was provided to traumatized children and their families, as well as protection services against gender-based violence for women, which we kept operational during the emergency together with our Palestinian partner CFTA.

• Together with ActionAid India, we have provided help to migrant workers and their families who had to move to their places of origin in April 2021 in what was the biggest health crisis in the country with the explosion of the B1617 variant of the coronavirus. The aid reached 8,000 people directly, and a total of 100,000 indirectly.

• In Colombia we have continued to support peacebuilding processes, working with a group of 60 black women from the North of Cauca who participated in the fourth edition of the cycle “School for Women Peacebuilders”, which has allowed them to become aware of their rights and develop capacities to defend and vindicate them.

Volunteering

At Alianza we have been working since 2008 on an ambitious volunteer program both nationally and internationally because we believe that it is one of the most effective ways to build a citizenry that catalyzes the positive change that we want to see in society.

2021 has still been marked by the pandemic and the consequent difficulties in deploying volunteers and organizing activities. However, during this year there have been notable advances:

- We have had 170 volunteers (30% more than in 2020), of which 140 worked with Alianza in Cantabria, Aragón, the Balearic Islands, Castilla y León, La Rioja, Castilla-La Mancha, Murcia, Madrid, Catalonia, and Euskadi. 21 volunteers were deployed in Palestine, Jordan, Colombia, England, Germany, Belgium and Portugal. Nine worked online in various areas.

- We have reinforced both face-to-face and online training through a section created for this purpose on our website: www.formaciones.alianzaporlasolidaridad.org.

- We have made progress in the goal of expanding our international volunteering thanks to an agreement with Volunteering Matters.

- Finally, in November, we managed to gather our base of activists in Valencia (after two years without meeting physically due to the pandemic), achieving the participation of 170 people (113 women; 57 men), with whom we debated feminisms, migrations, climate justice and anti-racism. We seek to increase and strengthen the political participation of young women in these areas.
Board of Trustees – Governance of the organization

During the year 2021, a process of talent analysis and renewal of profiles of our board of trustees was carried out. The new board of trustees is now 63% female. We have welcomed Cristina Manzano as the new President and Erica Rodríguez as Vice President. In addition, a review and update of our statutes was made to better respond to the changes that have occurred in the organization and in the post-pandemic context and were approved in the last board of the year. In 2022, the organization’s governance reform processes will continue.

Talent and People

A new Training Plan was implemented with languages, digital tools, European financing programs for domestic work and program management procedures, feminist leadership, communication and analysis of humanitarian needs. In 2021, 361 hours of training were given in these areas with a total participation of 87 people.

A collective care process, by teams, was carried out with the help of an external coach to help better deal with the stressful situations caused by the pandemic.

Digital Management Tools

In 2021 we have continued to innovate in our forms of internal management, consolidating the use of digital and collaborative work tools, a process that began in 2020.

Internal communication

In this year 2021 we implemented an internal newsletter that is carried out collaboratively between communication and representatives of all departments. The bulletin is distributed to all Spanish-speaking staff on a monthly basis in order to maintain the cohesion of the teams, promoting better communication and information on what is happening in the organization. In 2022, our goal is to make it more inclusive for all team.
