

You decided to leave your country in search of a better future, you trusting in a chance that now is so far and yet so near.

You left behind dreams, family, friends, without knowing that here you would find others.

What you see far away today can change like lightning, quickly and explosively.

Don't despair or lose faith, have eyes for the achievements and not for the shortcomings, every day is a blessing transformed into a new opportunity to move forward.

Trust in your power!

I'm waiting for you so cheer up, better together.

Hecmyr
Migrant woman
Venezuela

